FAQs:

Q: How do I get scheduled for testing?
A: Schedule an initial appointment at the CWC called a triage. This is a 20 minute appointment to assess your concerns. The triage counselor can schedule you a testing screening if that makes sense in regard to your presenting concern. Schedule early in the semester as Testing appointments are very limited.

Q: How much does the testing cost?
A: Presently, the testing does not cost anything additional to your student health fees.

Q: How long does the testing last?
A: The first appointment will be a Testing Screening, and typically lasts for 90 minutes and may include an interview and some brief testing.

The Testing Evaluation Appointment usually lasts about 90 minutes, and will involve taking two assessments.

The Testing Assessment Appointment usually lasts about 3 hours, and will involve a number of different short tasks.

Finally, there is a Feedback Appointment to get the results, which typically lasts for one hour. The whole process may take up to a month or more from start to finish.

Q: What are my other options for testing?
A: There are many local providers in the community who also will do testing. If you have insurance or are willing to pay out of pocket, this may be a more expedient option. A listing of available testing providers is available through the Disability Resource Center (see page 3 on linked document) website or the CWC Community Provider Database.
